A Blizzard of Snow and Rain All Over East and Part of the South.

ALL TRAINS DELAYED

New York, March 5.—Flood conditions in the East are reported rapidly improving, although anairs in the Wyoming Valley and Northeastern Pennsylvania generally and along the Hudson, near Albany, are still in bad shape. Dispatches from Wilkes-barre, Pa., show that more than a score of lives were lost and $5,000,000 worth of property was destroyed in Northeastern Pennsylvania. Eighteen thousand homeless persons in the Wyoming valley are anxiously watching the backward course of the waters.

The water has receded in Paterson, N. J., so that the danger there practically is over, but there were many daring rescues of persons who had stayed in the flooded houses.

So many mills were damaged that 10,000 operatives are thrown out of work for an indefinite time.

In Passaic six men are reported to have been carried down with a bridge which was washed away. The current was so swift that it was impossible to rescue them.

Cities and towns in almost all sections of New York and in New England states suffered heavy damage to property, and delayed trains were reported.

Not for many years have mails reaching New York been so delayed as in the last three and a half days.

GIANT MERGER IS SURE TO WIN

Its Present Position is Safe Against the Onslaught of Knox.

INVITES A BATTLE

Safe Under Sherman Anti-Trust Law—Owns Only 40 Per Cent of Stock.

LIS NOT IN CONTROL

New York, March 5.—Announcement of the actual position of the Northern Securities company was discussed today in Wall Street, where the facts were not known before the closing of the market.

It had been generally presumed that as a matter of course the Northern Securities company shortly after it was formed took control of both the Northern Pacific and the Great Northern railroad companies by the exchange of large majorities of their stocks for the shares of the Northern Securities company.

The fact that the company owns only 40 per cent of the stock of the Great Northern, and therefore does not control that road, must make it apparent to every lay mind that, in its present position, it is safe against the proposed attack of the Sherman anti-trust act.

Not only is it safe, but it is in a position to invite an attack of the nature contemplated, for the trial of the suit, although it will not expose the Northern Securities company to danger, and in all probability will draw from the United States supreme court a full and exhaustive opinion on the question whether a New Jersey corporation has the right to hold control of two competing railroads chartered in another state the laws of which forbid the merging of such lines.

If the opinion of the court is favorable the Northern Securities company will go ahead on the lines originally proposed and take over the remainder of the Great Northern stock, or at least increase its holdings to a majority.

If the decision is against it the company will remain in its present position, or perhaps increase its minority holding in Great Northern to 49 per cent of the total stock, which would make it necessary for friendly interests to hold only one per cent, plus one share of the stock to insure the retention of control in proper hands without making the Northern Securities company amenable to the Sherman laws; or it may organize under foreign laws—those of Canada or England—to hold control of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific, just as it now seeks to do under its New Jersey charter.

BADGER EDITORS' ANNUAL REUNION

The Occasion is Intended as a Friendly Reunion by the Pencil Pushers of the State.

Milwaukee, March 5.—The annual meeting of the Wisconsin Press association opened this morning at the Merchants' and Manufacturers' association rooms in the University building and continues until Friday afternoon. The meeting promises to be one of enjoyment as well as of mutual benefit to those in attendance. It will constitute in a measure a reunion of the editors of the state. A varied programme has been prepared. E. D. Cox, the veteran editor of the White Water Register, will make an address on "Second-class Mail Abuse," a subject which, under the present circumstances, is an interesting one. Joe Chapple, formerly of Ashland and now of the National magazine of Boston will deliver an address on "The Personal Side of William McKinley and His Relations With Newspaper Men." Robert M. Crawford, of the Mineral Point Democrat will read a paper on "News, Advertisements and Editorials." Henry E. Roe will point the way to "Keep in the Rut," and Miss Alletta D. Goodhue of the Trempleau Herald will have something to say about "Current Events Illustrated in Weekly Newspapers." R. E. Powers of the Wausau Herald will define the position of "The Newspaper in Politics" and W. C. Fraser of the Wisconsin Sugar Beet of Menomonee Falls will treat that industry in a characteristic paper.

WARM GREETING AT MILWAUKEE

Thousands of Badger German Americans Welcomed the Prince.

GRAND RECEPTION

Streets Gaily Decorated, and at Night a Blaze of Light.

THE PRINCE'S SPEECH

Milwaukee, Wis., March 5.—Prince Henry of Prussia was greeted here yesterday afternoon by the greatest assemblage of German-Americans ever before gathered in this country to entertain a royal visitor. It was the flower of Milwaukee's Teuton pride and loyalty that extended to him the hand of welcome. Not only that but thousands of Germans from every part of the state came to Milwaukee to share the greeting.

Official Buildings Closed

As far as Milwaukee is concerned the festivities of the day began at noon, when, in accordance to the proclamation of Mayor Rose, the city, county and governmental buildings were closed. The city began to present a sight of unusual activity immediately after noon, thousands of those on the streets being visitors from the interior part of the state. At five o'clock the party arrived at the exposition building where the local reception began.

Found Welcome to City

As Prince Henry appeared on the stage escorted by his staff and the reception committee, the mass chorus of 600 voices sang "Das Deutsch Lied." There were 10,000 persons packed in the exposition building, and it was long before they were sufficiently stifled for Chairman John Johnston to briefly introduce Mayor Rose, who formally welcomed the Prince to the city.

The mayor gave way to former Congressman P. V. Duester and in their tongue.

Welcomed by the Governor

Governor LaFollette then welcomed the Prince to Milwaukee in behalf of the state, and expressed regret at the shortness of his visit. Captain Emil Court, who also spoke in German, was the last speaker.

The great chorus sang again, and as the prince arose to leave the hall the crowd broke into cheers. He touched his cap in salute and smiled as he turned to leave the stage.

Magnificent Illuminations

The prince was then driven through illuminated streets to the Hotel Pfister, where the banquet was served. The illumination was magnificent. Hundreds of strings of electric lights were arched across Grand avenue and Wisconsin street, hundreds of buildings were outlined in light, and high up on the tower of the city hall, printed in incandescent lights, were the words, "Welcome to H. R. H. Prince Henry." Especially pretty was the lighting of the court of honor on Grand avenue.

Banquet at Hotel Pfister

The dinner at the Hotel Pfister lasted about two hours. The decorations of the banquet hall were very elaborate. The table at which the Prince sat was literally covered with Alabama snail, arching gracefully over the place where Prince Henry sat, and hung at the ends with roses and carnations.

Three toasts were proposed, those of the President of the United States and the Emperor of Germany being drunk while the orchestra played the national airs of the respective countries. These were followed by the toast: "Prince Henry of Prussia." The Prince responded as follows:

Response of the Prince

"Mr. Mayor, Gentlemen: It is a pleasure to me to thank you for your hearty welcome and for the opportunity you have given me of seeing the lovely, handsome and sympathetic city of yours, the principal city of Wisconsin, which is famed for its thrift and industry. I have heard it stated by you, as well as by others, that the development of Milwaukee is due largely to the German element among its citizens, a statement which fills my heart with pride and gladness, inasmuch as I look upon the German element as one of the strongest ties between Germany and the United States. (Great Applause.)

"I doubt it not that these people of German descent will in the future, as in the past, be a credit to that country which they proudly call their home.

"The merits of your city are well known, its feats of industry are registered; not so, however, is something that I could not help noticing in passing through the crowded streets of your city today—the handsome, sweet and pretty faces belonging to the fair sex. (Cheers, laughter and great applause.)

"I drink the health of the fair sex of the city of Milwaukee."

Prince Henry left for the East at 10 o'clock on a special train. A large crowd greeted him as he took his farewell.

Prince at Cleveland

Cleveland, March 5.—Prince Henry's special passed through here at nine o'clock this morning. It made a five minute stop during which the prince left the breakfast table to go to the back platform, where he acknowledged the cheers of the crowd in the depot. No formal ceremonies.

DAIRY PRODUCT LEADS THE WORLD

Wisconsin is the Peer of Any State in the Union in This Important Industry.

"Wisconsin is the peer of any state in the Union for stock and dairy purposes, and the indications are that over 1,500 new settlements will be made by families in northern Wisconsin alone in 1902."

This is the statement of James I. Gates, whose investments in lands in Gates, Clark, Chippewa and Price counties comprise thousands of acres. "We alone placed 450 new settlers in that district last year and sold over $450,000 worth of new lands," continued Mr. Gates. "That land is bought principally for stock and dairy purposes, as the water supply is unlimited, and conditions otherwise unrivaled. An interesting fact is that many of the new settlers in Clark county are engaging in the work of raising tobacco."

"The stockmen going to northern Wisconsin come principally from Illinois, Iowa, Indiana and other neighboring states, though some of the many immigrants who start for the cheaper lands of North Dakota and adjoining states stop on their way to remain in Wisconsin. The settlers who come to Wisconsin are of the better class, and when they start out their each have on the average of $2,000 in property."—Milwaukee Journal.

PLANS FOR THE NEXT CAMPAIGN

Chairman for the Congressional Committee is Still Undecided.

BABCOCK IN DOUBT

The Wisconsin Man's Tariff Views May Lose Him His Position.

GOOD MAN FOR PLACE

Washington, D. C., March 5.—There will be a meeting of the republican senators and representatives on Monday night at which the selection of the republican congressional committee will be considered.

Great interest attaches to this meeting because of the selection of a chairman of the republican congressional committee is involved. Representative Babcock of Wisconsin has served in this capacity four years, and there is some question as to whether or not he will be chosen to succeed himself. Mr. Babcock has announced that he is not particularly anxious to serve another term, and said some months ago that he would not be a candidate.

Some Opposition to him

Aside from the disinclination of the Wisconsin representative to accept the chairmanship again, there is some opposition to him, because many regard him as without the breastworks of the republican party to some extent because of his attitude on the tariff question. Mr. Babcock, as is well known, favors the reduction, and in some instances the removal of duties on goods made by the steel trust.

Those who are best acquainted with Mr. Babcock are aware that he is a stalwart republican at heart; that he is really the friend of protection, and that his measure proposing to remove duties from articles made by the steel trust was never intended to be taken seriously. It was merely a lever to remove the tax on beer.

These facts, together with the valuable experience that Mr. Babcock has acquired in conducting two successful campaigns as the head of the committee, are greatly in his favor, and there is still a strong belief that if he will consent to put the conduct of the campaign in his hands.

Slavery in Philippines

Governor Taft today told the House committee on insular affairs that slavery in the Philippines was so thoroughly ingrained that it would require much time and care to eradicate it. A majority of the slaves are held for sale. Until they can buy their liberty the obligation runs for generations. The greatest difficulty in the way of a solution of the problem is the attitude of the slaves, who do not appear to desire freedom. Efforts to free them by force he said would probably result in all of them taking up arms against the United States.

Governor Taft estimates the number of slaves at 300,000, all of them to be found in the southern Moro islands. The authorities were very anxious to assist in any way to eradicate the system in compliance with the desires of the United States.

TO GROW TOBACCO UNDER CANVAS; F. H. BEMIS WILL PLANT 2 ACRES

The Seeds Used for Plants To Be Shade Grown, is the Best Sumatra, Which Finds a Ready Sale at From 75 Cents to $1.50 Per Pound.

Another Rock county farmer has decided to grow tobacco under canvas this summer as an experiment. F. H. Bemis, who resides eight miles west of Janesville on the Footville road, will grow two acres under canvas, as many of the farmers in Connecticut are doing.

Cedar posts will be set that reach eight feet above the ground and on the posts joists will be fastened and over the joists cheese cloth will be spread and wire will be strung over the cheese cloth to hold it down.

When the plants are put into the ground the cheese cloth as "that" will be spread over the joists, acting as a partial shade and in case of a storm affords some protection. These methods have been followed in Connecticut and Florida, also Georgia.

with uniformly satisfactory and profitable results, for some years.

The seed used for plants to be shade grown is the best Sumatra, such as produces the best wrapper leaf, and so far, has found a ready sale at from 75c to $1.50 per pound.

The growing of tobacco under shade is a new thing for Wisconsin farmers, but if the experiments prove to be a success, many of the farmers in this state will take it up. At least a dozen farmers in various parts of the state will take up the work this year.

Should the experiments being made this year prove successful, it will be possible for this state to grow wrapper tobacco, which has not been uniformly successful under the present condition and with the present methods.

Early Days In Janesville. As Remembered by I. T. Smith

On May 19, 1836, Isaac T. Smith and the party that he speaks for, reached what is now Janesville. They came in, probably, on what has been always known as "the Racine road," as their first stopping place was at the home of Samuel St. John, at Spring Brook. After dinner, eaten under the hospitable roof of Mr. St. John, the host showed the party the easiest way to reach the log house that had been built for Mr. Janes. Spring Brook was quite a stream in those days. Mr. Smith says that it was 8 and 10 feet deep in places. It was also swollen by rains, and the party had to go some distance up the valley toward Black Hawk Grove, in order to get across. Janes' cabin was reached in due time, and then the settlement of Janesville began. Four families then composed the population of what is now this city. Samuel St. John lived a mile south of the Milwaukee street of today.

Dr. James Heath's house stood a little above the Monterey stone quarry, on the south side of the river. Wm. Holmes, Sr., lived on the west side of the river and John Holmes' cabin was on the east side. Mr. Smith thought, when he wrote, that these families composed the entire population of the valley.

Met Joseph Shebolt.

It was at the St. John house that Mr. Smith first met Joseph Shebolt, Caleb Blodgett and others had hired horses of the hardy old Frenchman, and as they had been retained beyond the time for which they had been hired, Shebolt, came in person to look them up. Seeing the ponies feeding on the flat, Shebolt proceeded to catch them. He was very angry when he came to the house, but says Mr. Smith, "a little soft savior, and the milk of human kindness put him all right." Shebolt then softened, and told them much about the country. He also gave them much information concerning the Black Hawk war, through which he served. He also claimed that he and General Scott made the treaty of Rock Island. Shebolt acting as interpreter. The bolt was a French Canadian. "The-bolt" has been the generally accepted spelling of his name, although it has also been spelled "Theobald." The name is pronounced as if spelled "Thebo." Shebolt was the first settler at Beloit, but he soon left the Line City and located on Lake Koshkonong. He had two Indian wives and four or five children, and "Thebolt" (or Thebo) Point at Koshkonong, was the site of his camp for many years.

Shebolt was a power among the Indians, and was widely known.

Met Violent Death.

His life had been eventful, and came to a tragic end. During the winter of 1837-38, he was murdered. A family row preceded the killing, and one of the Indian wives and her son Francis were supposed to have committed the crime. The fight followed a disagreement. Shebolt wanted to remain at Koshkonong and cultivate the land, while the balance of the family desired to go west with the other Indians.

Shebolt was a leader of the Indians, and an authority on the subject as to their traditions. His statement as to the meaning of the name "Koshkonong" is therefore authoritative. He said the word was of Winnebago origin and meant "The Place Where We Share." This name was given the lake, he says, because, when he and another trader came to this country they left their razors at the lake while they travelled about buying furs, returning to their headquarters when they wanted to shave.

The Pottowattamies had a camp on the East side of the lake, and their name signifies, "The Lake We Live On."

Smith Locates Here.

Mr. Smith liked Rock County, and took up a claim on what has been known as the Strunk farm. After building a cabin to hold his possessions during the absence, he returned to Racine. He had a hard trip, as he had to ford creeks and rivers. He left Janesville, on May 25. The journey was sixty five miles long, and during the trip Mr. Smith passed but one house. At the time, he says, he did not know of a family in Walworth County.

In closing Mr. Smith gives the facts concerning the origin of some familiar names. Emerald Grove, he says, was christened by Dr. James Heath. Mount Zion was named by James Ward and Erastus Coddington. John A. Fletcher was responsible for the name of Johnsonville. Milton was first known as Prairie du Lac, but as mail was sometimes sent to Prairie du Lac by mistake, the name was changed to Milton. Otter Creek was so named because of the numbers of otter skins along its banks.

Mr. Smith took up the claim upon which he lived for many years, on March 4, 1837. President Van Buren was to have been inaugurated on that day, but as it fell on Sunday, he waited a day. Mr. Smith didn't wait, however—he drove 12 miles in a sleigh, and staked out his claims.

DR. MILLS ACTED IN GOOD FAITH

Jury Answers Each of Five Questions in Special Verdict in Favor of the Physician.

It took the jury in the case of Kirkpatrick vs. Mills but a few minutes to decide that Dr. Mills acted in good faith and without malice, when he made the complaint for the arrest of J. O. Kirkpatrick after his safe had been robbed on August 6, 1901.

The case was taken up on Monday morning and was hotly contested from start to finish. The testimony was all in yesterday morning. The arguments took up the most of the afternoon, the case finally going to the jury shortly before 5 o'clock. They did not waste much time over the special verdict and in a few minutes returned to the court room, having answered each of the five questions in favor of Dr. Mills, as follows:

1. Was the defendant, Dr. Mills, actuated by malice in making the complaint for the arrest of the plaintiff?

A. No.

2. Did Dr. Mills have probable cause for making such complaint?

A. Yes.

3. Did the defendant, Dr. Mills, prior to such complaint, fully, fairly and honestly state to the district attorney, Mr. Jackson, and to Judge Field, all the facts and circumstances within his knowledge or information, bearing upon the question of probable cause for making the complaint?

A. Yes.

4. Did Dr. Mills, in making the complaint, act pursuant to the advice given him by Judge Field and Mr. Jackson?

A. Yes.

THE STARVATION PLAN.

Of Treating Dyspepsia and Stomach Troubles is Useless and Unscientific. The almost certain failure of the starvation cure for dyspepsia has been proven time and again, but even now a course of dieting is generally the first thing recommended for a case of indigestion or any stomach trouble.

Many people with weak digestion, as well as some physicians consider the first step to take in attempting to cure indigestion is to restrict the diet, either by selecting certain foods and rejecting others or to cut down the amount of food eaten to barely enough to keep soul and body together. In other words the starvation plan is by many supposed to be the first essential.

All this is radically wrong. It is foolish and unscientific to recommend dieting to a man already suffering from starvation because indigestion itself starves every organ, nerve and fibre in the body.

What people with poor digestion most need is abundant nutrition, plenty of good wholesome, properly cooked food, and something to assist the weak stomach to digest it.

This is exactly the purpose for which Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are adapted, and the true reason why they cure the worst cases of stomach trouble.

Eat a sufficient amount of wholesome food and after each meal take one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets to promptly digest it.

In this way the system is nourished and the over-worked stomach rested, because the tablets will digest the food whether the stomach works or not, one grain of the active digestive principle in Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets being sufficient to digest 3,000 grains of meat, eggs or other albuminous food.

Dr. Harlandson and Dr. Redwell, recommend these tablets in all cases of defective digestion because the peptic and diastase in them are absolutely free from animal matter and other impurities, and being pleasant to the taste are as safe and harmless for the child as for the adult.

All drug stores sell this excellent preparation, and the daily use of them after meals will be of great benefit not only as an immediate relief but to permanently build up and invigorate the digestive organs.

IS DEEP OR SHALLOW PLOWING THE BEST?

An Opinion on the Subject by C. F. Page, at an Auction Gathering Near Edgerton.

The writer listened to an interesting conversation, at C. F. Page's Auction, near Edgerton, last week, regarding the depth of spring plowing and as there are few problems connected with the farm concerning which there is such diversity of opinion as on the subject of plowing, we will try to give the many Gazette readers a few of the ideas advanced by a successful farmer why a shallow furrow of four inches is preferred to one or six or seven inches.

He claimed, that some make a practice of plowing deep at all times while he preferred the shallow.

Then again some plow deep only in the fall, and shallow in the spring, while it was true that conditions of soil and climate are modifying influences, although these are of more importance in the spring than in the fall.

He seemed to be firmly grounded in the faith that plowing in the spring should be shallow and advanced some very good reasons. One reason was, that inert material is not brought to the surface where it will surround the roots of growing crops.

Again, if there is any trash on the surface it is a great mistake to plow it under to any considerable depth, as the decay of vegetable matter will be little liberation of plant food during the first season.

In addition to this waste may interfere with the upward movement of water from subsoil.

In case of breaking up meadows or old pastures he had often seen farmers plow them too deep in the spring as it was a great mistake to turn sod over at a depth of six or seven inches, when a furrow of three or four inches would have made a much better seed bed, besides requiring much less horse power to do the work.

In such a case roots decay slowly and a crop in such a soil will not go forward as rapidly as on one turned over shallow.

This was especially important if manure had been thrown in the ground before plowing. In no case should it be covered so that decomposition could not readily take place, for atmospheric conditions are very necessary to the decomposition of vegetable matter, and by plowing manure in deeply, they simply denied the crop. The beneficial effect of this element.

To start with, he would advise one to plow not deeper than four inches and as the season advances and vegetation accumulates on the ground, even more shallow than this is preferable, as it is never advisable to plow green vegetation under to any considerable depth in the spring as it may become sour in the soil and thereby produce gases that are injurious to growing crops.

He was asked the question if this would apply to sandy soil, as this was more loose and aerated and the reply was that in this it did not matter so much, yet would prefer shallow plowing just the same.

Madame:—In reply to your note will say, give your children Rocky Mountain Tea each week. Keeps them well all the time. 35 cents Smith's Pharmacy, kodak agents.

SUGAR QUESTION SPLITS CONGRESS

Germany Ready to Protest Against Aid to Cuban Planters.

Washington, March 5.—International complications are threatened over the Cuban sugar question. It is said that the government of Germany will protest if the United States grants a concession of the tariff for Cuba's benefit. The grounds of Germany's objection will be:

1. That it is a violation of the spirit of the treaty between the United States and Germany.

2. That a concession to Cuban sugar is a discrimination against German sugar, and that it comes with poor grace at a time when the United States is asking Germany to make more favorable terms for the admission of American agricultural products into the German Empire.

The protest has not yet been made, but the views of the German government are well known. Already the opponents of Cuban reduction are saying that it will be poor policy for the United States to aid the planters of Cuba and by so doing bring on a commercial war with Germany, which is the second best customer of the United States. There is a prevalent opinion that if the United States does favor Cuba, and to that extent discriminate against German beet sugar, the Berlin government may retaliate with additional obstacles in the way of American products seeking market in Germany.

No more bitter struggle has been seen in Washington in many years than that which is now on between the advocates and opponents of Cuban concessions. The fight is raging desperately, and no one can see the outcome. The Republican party in the House of Representatives is split right in two in the middle. Of about 200 Republican members about 100 are ranged on either side. The beet sugar men are claiming a majority and vociferously declaring that they have the hides of President Roosevelt, Secretary Root, Speaker Henderson, the ways and means committee and the sugar trust hung up on the fence. The other side deny this, but admit that the contending forces are of about equal strength.

Unless things soon take a turn for the better, President Roosevelt will send in a special message urging Congress to act. The beet sugar people from the West and Northwest say that President Roosevelt attempts to force their hands and dictate to Congress he will make himself so unpopular that his nomination and election in 1901 will become impossible.

These are samples of the bitterness that has sprung up over this question. The situation is so complex and difficult that the coolest leaders of the Republican party admit they do not know what to do.

Subsidy Bill in the Senate.

Washington, March 5.—The ship subsidy bill was further discussed in the Senate yesterday by Mr. Frye. His remarks were principally directed to the Republican Senators, and he gave further expression to his views that the subsidy bill was a logical response to the demands and principles of the Republican party, and that in its preparation he had obliterated the objections entertained by Senators friendly to the measure. No other Senator desiring to speak, the bill was laid aside and a number of minor bills were passed, including one appropriating $3,500 to construct a light-house keeper's dwelling at Calumet Harbor, Lake Michigan, Illinois, and another for the international committee of the Young Men's Christian Association. Military reservations of the United States.

Proceedings in the House.

Washington, March 5.—The House spent another day in discussion of the bill to classify the rural free delivery service and place the carriers under the contract system. No vote was reached. The fate of the bill is in doubt, although the impression prevailed that it will be defeated. The speakers yesterday were Messrs. Smith (Dem., Ky.), Gardner (N. J.) and Williams (Miss.). In favor, and Messrs. Landis (Ind.), Maddox (Ga.) and Hill (Conn.) against the measure.

Before debate began the conference report on the Philippine tariff bill was adopted. The vote was on party lines, except that Messrs. McCall (Mass.), Littlefield (Me.) and Heatwole (Minn.) voted with the Democrats against adopting the report.

Discuss War Revenue Repeat.

Washington, March 5.—The House bill for the repeal of the war revenue bill and providing for the removal of the duty on tea received its first consideration at the hands of the Senate committee on finance, and when the committee adjourned members expressed the opinion that the measure would be favorably reported after one or two more sittings.

Washington Notes.

Washington, March 5.—Messrs. Wesels and Wolmaren, accompanied by Montagu White, consul general for the South African republics at New York, have arranged for a reception by Secretary Hay. This reception will be purely unofficial, the Boers occupying the status of private citizens of another country sojourning in the United States.

Representative Richardson of Tennessee, Democratic leader in the House, announced that he would not be a candidate for the chairmanship of the Democratic congressional committee. He has directed several congressional campaigns, and was at the helm in 1900. He says that he finds the pressure of other business will not give him time to again discharge the responsible duties.

Senator Don Joaquín Walker-Martínez, who succeeds the late Senator Vienna as Chilean minister at Washington, has presented his credentials to President Roosevelt.

The Secretary of the Treasury has purchased $1,000,000 short 4 per cent bonds, which makes the total purchased since July 1, 1901, $51,536,420 of all denominations, at a cost of $64,309,622.

Representative Hay of Virginia secured favorable action by the House committee on military affairs of the bill of Representative Jenkins of Wisconsin for the establishment of a military park at Fredericks, Va., on the site of the "historic battlefield." The bill appropriates $100,000.

The census bureau has issued a preliminary report on bicycles and tricycles, exclusive of repair shops, which shows that the products of the industry increased almost $30,000,000 between 1890 and 1900.

The President has made the following appointments for cadetships in the naval academy: Ralph Earle Sampson, son of Rear Admiral W. T. Sampson; principal; Woodward Philip, son of the late Rear Admiral Philip, first alternate; O. W. Howard, son of Major General Howard, U. S. A., second alternate, and Presley Morgan Taylor, son of Rear Admiral Henry C. Taylor, third alternate.

Tourist Sleeping Cars

The Milwaukee road has announced that instead of making a reduction in the price of sleeping car berths, as had been contemplated, it will in the near future put tourist sleeping cars on the run between here and St. Paul twice a week. Old sleeping cars until lately used as first class sleepers will be utilized for the purpose. The last Pullman sleeping car in operation on the Milwaukee road system will be retired March 15, when the last contract in force between the road and the Pullman company will expire. The road will then operate its own sleeping cars exclusively.

Great Winter Game's Terminology. Arrangement of Players.

Hockey is attracting a great deal of attention at the present time. Both outdoor and indoor ice rinks are covered with stout limbed, ruddy faced youths and men engaged in the delightful and invigorating chase of the elusive puck.

The terminology of hockey differs in various localities. Canada uses terms which are in vogue in parts of the United States, but the majority of players have formed a table of names, including a few from the Dominion and many of American initiation. These differences referred to are noticeable in the names of the players' positions. Our terms as a rule tabulate them as follows: Goal, point, cover point and four forwards. Canadians have a cover point, a point, two wings (right and left), two centers and a goal. The accompanying diagram shows how the players should be arranged in order to obtain the best results. All regulation games are started with the players in these relative positions.

The News From County Towns.

NORTH JOHNSTOWN. March 4.—This community was greatly shocked Tuesday, by the sudden death of Miss Ethel Bevens, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. N. Bevens, after an illness of only two days of grip, complicated with other difficulty from which she had been suffering some time. She was born in Janesville, Wis., Nov. 13, 1883 and with the family came to this place in 1885, where she has since resided, except for three years, when the family resided in Milton Junction, returning to this place six years ago. She was converted at Milton Junction in 1895, and the following year joined the M. E. church, of that place, of which she was a member at the time of her death. Funeral services were held at the church in this place, Thursday afternoon, conducted by the pastor, Rev. A. Longfield, and were attended by a large company of relatives and friends, among whom was a delegation of her school mates from Milton Junction.

A Real Short Story.

A well-known figure in Wellington (New Zealand) streets is Jacob Joseph, the Hebrew capitalist. He drives in a stylish turnout and wears blue glasses. But he has been stone-blind since boyhood, when he tried to frighten a servant girl by playing ghost with a sheet over his head. She clutched his face, and in her excitement her thumbs destroyed his sight.—Sidney Bulletin.

SORES AND ULCERS.

Sores and Ulcers never become chronic unless the blood is in poor condition—is sluggish, weak and unable to throw off the poisons that accumulate in it. The system must be relieved of the unhealthy matter through the sore, and great danger to life would follow should it heal before the blood has been made pure and healthy, and all impurities eliminated from the system. S.S.S. begins the cure by first cleansing and invigorating the blood, building up the general health and removing from the system A CONSTANT DRAIN UPON THE SYSTEM.

When this has been accomplished the discharge gradually ceases, and the sore or ulcer heals. It is the tendency of these old indolent sores to grow worse and worse, and eventually to destroy the bones. Local applications, while soothing and to some extent alleviate pain, cannot reach the seat of the trouble. S. S. S. does, and no matter how apparently hopeless your condition, even though your constitution has broken down, it will bring relief when nothing else can. It supplies the rich, pure blood necessary to heal the sore and nourish the debilitated, diseased body.

Mr. J. B. Talbot, Lock Box 245, Winona, Minn., says: "Six years ago my leg from the knee to the foot was all sore. Several physicians treated me and I made two trips to Hot Sp. ags, but found no relief. I was induced to try S. S. S., and it made a complete cure. I have been perfectly well ever since."

S.S.S. is the only purely vegetable blood purifier known—contains no poisonous minerals to ruin the digestion and add to, rather than relieve your sufferings. If your flesh does not heal really when scratched, bruised or cut, your blood is in bad condition, and any ordinary sore is apt to become chronic.

Send for our free book and write our physicians about your case. We make no charge for this service.

The Sign of Health

Dizziness and headaches cannot be cured in any other manner than by getting at the root of the trouble and curing the cause.

The cause is almost invariably a disordered digestive system, or else a bad stomach and clogged bowels are responsible. Laxakola, the great Tonic Laxative, is an unfailing cure.

It works gently and painlessly and at the same time acts as a tonic to the bowels, stomach, liver and kidneys and builds up the system instead of weakening and irritating it as other laxatives do.

Its remarkable properties reach every organ—the liver, kidneys and stomach, nerve, heart and brain—and removes the cause of your debilitated condition. This is the only way to secure an absolute and permanent cure. Laxakola is the only medicine for babies, is purely vegetable and its action is gentle, speedy and effective. For coated tongue, simple fevers, colds, chills and languid feeling it is the ideal medicine.

It tastes good. Children like it and ask for it.

LAXAKOLA FOR WOMEN.

It is a gentle and safe remedy to use during all conditions of health of the gentler sex whenever their peculiar and delicate constitutions require a mild and efficient laxative and tonic, and is invaluable in assisting to relieve obstructions which otherwise would lead to more or less severe pain or illness.

It improves the complexion, brightens the eyes, sharpens the appetite, quickens the circulation, removes muddy and blotched condition of the skin and cures sick headache to a certainty by removing the cause.

To women suffering from chronic constipation, headaches, biliousness, dizziness, yellowness of the skin and dyspepsia, Laxakola will invariably bring relief. At drugists, 25c and 50c, or send for free sample to THE LAXAKOLA CO., 132 Nassau Street, N. Y., or 350 Dearborn Street, Chicago.

Honors FOR GRANT

(Copyright, 1902, by G. L. Kilmer.)

INSIDE the walls of Fort Donelson there was gloom the night of Feb. 15, 1862. The Confederates had been beaten in battle that day and were hemmed in on all sides. They had few boats plying the river flowing past the fort, and Grant's troops had closed the only road of escape on land. The chieftains, Floyd, Pillow and Buckner, met in council of war. Various accounts of the scene have been given. Forrest, the noted cavalry leader, was present.

General Pillow, the second in command, was blamed for loss of the road of retreat which Grant had seized and held. In the discussion over what should be done with the army hemmed in by the river, "I am in favor of fighting out," General Buckner's soldiers had borne the brunt of the fighting in defense of the lines the day before. He said that three-fourths of the men would be sacrificed in cutting their way out. Both Floyd and Pillow preferred to die rather than be captured, but Buckner said, "I will share the fate of my command."

Forrest was full of fight. He had also been for fighting when there was a chance to meet the enemy. The day before, after the Federal troops had been hurled back on the right away from the Charlotte road and before Grant got to the scene to meet the crisis, Forrest had proposed to charge the broken ranks of the enemy with his cavalry. His superior officer re-

The "Unconditional
Surrender" of Fort
Donelson

Meanwhile Buckner had sent notice to his troops on the front line that he had made a proposition to the enemy to surrender the fort and asked them to notify the Federal troops in front in order to stop further fighting. White flags appeared all along the rifle pits, but none on the fort itself. To Grant's message he replied that he was compelled by circumstances to accept the "unconditional and unqualified terms" proposed. On receiving this second letter Grant mounted his horse and rode along the lines toward the little village of Dover, where the Confederate headquarters were located. Firing had ceased on both sides, and on reaching the Confederate outposts in front of Dover Grant was not challenged. He continued on to the little two-story, unpainted tavern, which has become historic as the scene of the famous surrender, and was surprised to find that General Lew Wallace was already in consultation with his old enemy, Buckner. Wallace commanded the Federal troops nearest to Dover and had had his soldiers stir before the break of day, intending to charge the Confederate breastworks as soon as it became light enough to maneuver. The regiments were forming for the purpose when a bugle blast across the lines announced the approach of a flag of truce. The truce officer stated that Buckner had decided to surrender and asked that there be no more firing. Wallace gave orders to his brigade commanders to advance and take possession of the enemy's works and himself rode with the Confederate to Buckner's quarters.

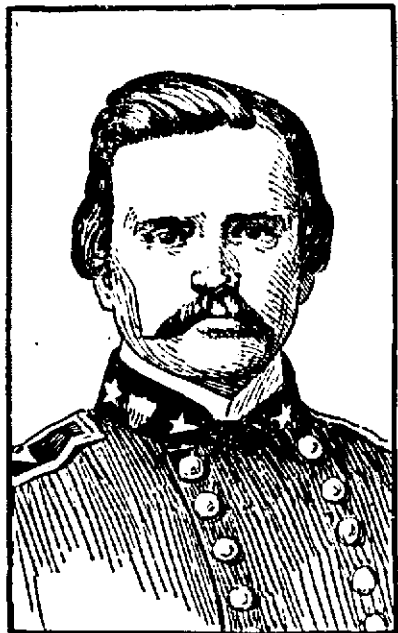

Wallace sent his name in to the Confederate chieftain, who recognized in him an acquaintance and ordered the sentinel to admit him. After a general handshake between the Federal and the Confederate leader and staff all sat down to a breakfast of corn-bread and coffee. During the meal Grant arrived and at once entered into friendly conversation with Buckner, whom he had known at West Point and afterward in the regular army. Buckner said that if he had been in command at Donelson at the start Grant could not have come up to it as boldly as he had done. Grant answered that if he had known Buckner was in command he would not have tried to come up in the same way.

The capture of Donelson was the first stunning victory of the war. Grant was immediately promoted to the rank of major general of volunteers. The phrase "unconditional surrender" became a watchword in the northern camps. As the initials of Grant's name corresponded to the first letters in the phrase the coincidence was caught up and banners were emblazoned with the legend "Unconditional Surrender Grant." Throughout the army east and west the fame of Grant inspired the soldiers with fresh hope. If the old flag could win in one fight, why not in others? Grant did not rest with the fall of Donelson. He promptly notified his superior officer, General Halleck, who was at St. Louis, that he would push on up the Cumberland river and take Clarksville the 21st of February and Nashville, the capital of Tennessee and the strongest Confederate post in the region, by the 1st of March. He believed that the fall of Donelson opened the way for Federal advance all over the southwest and that the armies could march at once to Chattanooga, Corinth, Memphis and Vicksburg, points ultimately captured only after hard fighting.

Without waiting for orders or for replies to his dispatches about his movements Grant started for Nashville. He reached there before March 1 and found it already in possession of the Federals under General Don Carlos Buell. Buell had followed the retreat of the enemy from Kentucky southward, a result of the fall of Henry and Donelson, and naturally reached Nashville in the wake of the Confederates. Grant was met at Nashville by orders from Halleck to leave a small garrison at Donelson and move his whole command back to Fort Henry. Two days later he received instructions to place General C. J. Smith in active command of the troops and remain himself at Fort Henry. And at the end of another two days he was virtually placed in arrest for disobedience to orders which he had never received and for going to Nashville without permission from his superiors. Thus four weeks from the time the campaign opened with the blow at Fort Henry and while the country rang with praises to the victor Grant was under arrest and without a command, all owing to the red tape routine of department headquarters.

Meanwhile the Confederates under the able leadership of Albert Sidney Johnston were getting away from the Kentucky line and middle Tennessee back to the strongholds of Corinth, Memphis and Chattanooga, which it would cost heavily to capture after the enemy should fortify them.

GEORGE L. KILMER.

GENERAL S. B. BUCKNER, C. S. A.

fused to allow him to advance. Forrest insisted all day the 15th that the leaders in Fort Donelson were deceived as to the true state of affairs in Grant's lines. His mounted scouts examined Grant's position and said that the ground lost by the Federals in the morning had not been regained by them in the later fighting of the day.

Forrest declared that he would not surrender and told Floyd that he would cut a path through the Federal lines at any point Floyd would designate, form a line of cavalry around the place of exit and keep the Federal soldiers back until the escaping garrison had passed through. The council could not agree upon a mode of action. Floyd decided to give it up, turned the command over to Pillow and took his own brigade out by boats. Pillow went away, leaving Buckner to share the hopeless fate of the garrison. Forrest said that he would go out if it was only to save one man. A creek with swampy borders extended from the river close to the fort along the front of Grant's lines on the flank. Forrest told his men of this swamp and gave them their choice to ford it or stay and be taken prisoners in the morning. About 500 of his Tennessee troopers agreed to follow their leader wherever he went, and they escaped by riding through the swamp with the water reaching their saddle skirts.

Grant intended to push the fight on the morning of the 16th and capture the fort by storm if it did not haul down the flag. It was in this spirit that he received, before daylight the 16th, a letter from General Buckner, written after Floyd and Pillow had abandoned him to his fate. The letter asked for an armistice until 12 o'clock noon. Grant knew that there were Confederate troops at Nashville when he set out for Donelson the week before and Buckner might be expecting help from that point, only fifty miles away. Buckner's note showed no desperation, for he proposed that both sides appoint commissioners to agree upon terms of capitulation. Buckner had said at the council of war before he wrote to Grant that the troops of the garrison in Donelson had no fight in them. Some were already helpless from the cold. Grant's reply to the note was just suited to the temper of things in Donelson. It was as follows:

HEADQUARTERS ARMY IN THE FIELD,
CLARK NEAR DONELSON, Feb. 16, 1862.

General S. B. Buckner, Confederate Army:
Sir—Yours of this date, proposing an armistice and appointment of commissioners to settle upon terms of capitulation, is just received. No terms except an unconditional surrender can be accepted. I propose to move immediately upon your works. I am, sir, very respectfully your obedient servant,
U. S. GRANT,
Brigadier General.

A Strong Woman

Iowa City, Iowa, Aug. 15, 1900.
My wife was sick for three years. We tried everything without relief and spent much money. My wife tried Wine of Cardui and four bottles cured her. She took two more bottles, knowing she would have to work hard during the hay harvest. She attended to all her household duties and loaded and unloaded all the hay. This medicine gave her strength. Formerly she was weak and tired and could hardly get about, but since she has been taking Wine of Cardui she feels better and stronger than when 20 years of age. JOS. A. EISENHAFER.

Mrs. Eisenhafer had tried everything during her three years sickness and had spent considerable money. She was weak and could hardly get about for three years before she took

WINE OF CARDUI

Now, after taking the Wine of Cardui, she can work with her husband in the hay field. That is hard work, but it is not as injurious to a woman's health as labor in stores, factories and offices where thousands of girls are closely confined year after year. With the aid of Wine of Cardui a woman can do any reasonable work and enjoy good health. The health that Wine of Cardui brings makes a woman vigorous in body and mind. Freed from those terrible devastating pains a woman grows well and strong naturally. Wine of Cardui regulates the disordered menstruation and cures leucorrhoea, falling of the womb and periodical pains in the head and back caused by standing or sitting a long time in the same position. Theodor's Black-Draught puts the bowels, stomach, liver, kidneys and blood in proper shape. Greatly increased strength and endurance is the natural result. Most cases are cured quickly. All druggists sell $1.00 bottles of Wine of Cardui and 25 cent packages of Theodor's Black-Draught.

CITY ELECTION NEAR AT HAND

It Will Be Held on April
1, Only Twenty-Six Days Ahead.

NO INTEREST IN IT

Five Aldermen, City Attorney,
City Treasurer, School Commissioner, Supervisors.

NO CANDIDATES OUT

Although the spring election will be held April 1, only twenty-six days away, it seems to be the last thing that people about town are thinking about. There seems to be no interest displayed in the coming elections, and so far, no one has been prominently spoken of as candidates, outside of the present incumbents.

The officers to be chosen at the coming election are: A city attorney in place of F. C. Durpee, a city treasurer in place of James A. Fathers, a school commissioner at large in place of W. S. Jeffris, a justice of the peace in place of Jesse Earle, an alderman from each ward, the retiring aldermen being Fifield, Valentine, Judd, Murray and Hemmings, a supervisor and constable from each ward and school commissioners from the Second and Fourth wards.

F. H. Koeblin is chairman of the city committee, the other members being S. B. Heddles, A. C. Jenkins, J. L. Bear, Frank Sanner and J. G. Wray. A meeting of the committee will be called for Thursday night at 7:30 o'clock at the city clerk's office to attend to the preliminary matters and settle upon the time and place of holding the caucuses.

No registration of voters is required for this election under the provisions of the statute applying to cities of this class.

It is understood that all the present office holders are candidates for reelection. No doubt after the meeting of the city committee and before the caucuses are held things will warm up and numerous candidates for the several offices will make their appearance in the field.

NO LABOR TROUBLE IN COTTON FACTORY

Dispute Between the Girls and Howe
Bros. Has Been Settled on a Satisfactory Basis.

The little cloud of labor trouble which hung over the Rock River Cotton Co's. plant last week has vanished and the mills have resumed their wonted activity. In fact at no time had the trouble assumed a serious aspect.

Few factories, employing the same number of persons, have had as little real labor trouble, as have the proprietors of the Rock River Cotton Co., Messrs. Thomas O. and Fred H. Howe. They have sought to do the fair thing by all employees and have paid as great wages as was possible and successfully competed with other institutions which manufacturers of the same or similar goods and compete with them in the general market.

At the inception of the trouble the Howe Bros. told a representative of their employees that they might send a committee to Beaver Dam, Wis., and Peoria, Ill., where there are similar mills, also to the Lewis knitting mills, the Isabelle factory, the Janesville clothing factory, the Janesville woolen mills, cigar box factory and any other factory employing women, average the wages paid per hour. In all these mills and factories and they would pay the average wage.

The Howe Bros. are paying 25 cents per day more than some of the eastern factories producing goods with which they compete in a general market. The Howe Bros. made certain concessions to their employees which they think is all they can do under existing circumstances. They reduced a day's work from eleven to ten and one-half hours, with the same pay as while working eleven hours. The noonday period has been increased from thirty to fifty minutes and Saturday afternoon the mills shut down at five o'clock instead of six o'clock as formerly.

Some persons criticize the Howe Bros. because of the discharge of one of their employees, alleging that his discharge was the result of his being one of the officers of an organization of the mill employees. The fact is, this man made certain statements and promises voluntarily, and in a few hours broke the promises made, hence his discharge. Other officers of this same organization have not been discharged or even threatened with being discharged.

The Howe Bros. are willing to confer with their employees at any time in regard to any trouble real or imaginary, but do not anticipate further trouble.

QUAIL IN DANGER IN BADGER STATE

Unfavorable Conditions Are Likely to Kill Many of Wisconsin's Much Protected Bird.

More than five years ago the legislature of Wisconsin made a law forbidding the killing of quail on any day of the year. The supply had dwindled to only a few birds.

Thousands of pairs were imported from Oklahoma and freed in the southern counties. They multiplied prodigiously. For two years past, in the southwestern counties especially, they have been incredibly numerous.

The farmers did not shoot them or trap them; no visiting sportsmen were permitted to hunt them. Every resident constituted himself a sort of a deputy game warden.

That is an agricultural region with good cover. Quail were everywhere practically. All spring and summer they took dust baths in the roads, or whistled from the orchards or fences. Skunks, foxes, wildcats and such predatory fauna had been almost exterminated.

In the winters heaves came into the backyards of farmhouses and fed with the chickens. They trotted about the barns undisturbed. In Grant, Lafayette, Walworth, Rock, Crawford, Vernon or any one of the nearby counties a fair shot last fall with a decent dog could have bagged 200 quail in a day.

The five-year law would have expired on Sept. 1 last, but the legislature, which met at Madison in January, 1901, was composed of a large part of farmers and the total protection quail statute was extended for three years more.

These now in Western and Southwestern Wisconsin is deeper and harder than it had known to be in a long time. Just what is to become of the quail, or rather how they will survive, no one knows.

They are not under the care of any game association. There is no one to send men into the woods to brush the snow from certain places and strew them with feed, as is being done in New Jersey. Thousands of these birds which would have furnished three months legitimate sport, must starve.

The quail cannot get through deep crusted snow as can the more powerful grouse. It does not feed upon honewood buds like grouse. If a heavy snow catches it while asleep and buries it, and then freezes, it cannot beat its way to the outer air and freedom with its bill as the grouse does.

Here and there farmers are leaving grain around their barns but this action is not general, and there are hundreds of berries which never come near a farmhouse. The position of the Wisconsin granger shortly stated is that he cannot, or will not, shoot quail for himself and family; the gun license of $1 a year is an imposition; powder and shot cost too much; he cannot spare the money for a gun, therefore nobody else shall shoot them.

It is the opinion of most Wisconsin sportsmen that there is such a thing as too much protection; they assert that quail was made for man and not man for quail. The chances are that next year there will be comparatively few quail in this state.

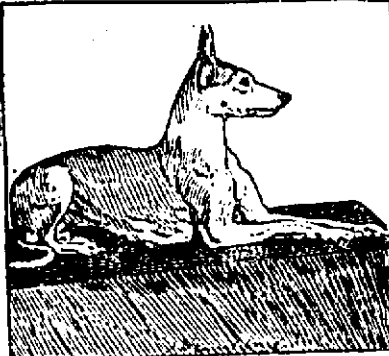

That, in general, has been the process and result of rigid quail protection in the Northwest. The birds are guarded from hunting for an unsensational time, then a hard winter comes and kills the most of them. This has been true of states as far south as Indiana, not to speak of such Commonwealths as Wisconsin, Minnesota and Michigan.—New York Sun.

SPEED OF WHIPPETS, HORSES AND HOUNDS.

They Are the Fastest Animals in Existence—Accurate Comparisons Impossible.

There have been many inquiries regarding the comparative speed of the horse and greyhound, in which seekers for information cite a whippet record of 11½ seconds for 200 yards, presuming it to be made by a greyhound. As a matter of fact, there is no way of comparing the speed of the greyhound with that of the horse. The greyhound runs entirely by sight, and while phenomenally fast in coursing, the sport for which he is used, the turns and doubles of a hare make it impossible to judge of his speed by the time standpoint.

The horse, the greyhound and whippet are the fastest animals alive. Still there is no way of handicapping them so as to determine the absolute speed in a comparative sense. The distance a whippet runs is 200 yards, beyond which distance he cannot carry his speed. The horse goes any route his rider asks him to, while the greyhound simply follows by sight. In a conversation with Mr. Boutelle, the well known whippet fancier of Providence, he tells us that the whippet, for his distance, can beat either greyhound or horse, neither of the latter two being able to leave its marks with the celerity of the former, which is everything in sprint racing.

There is no animal of its size that equals the whippet in speed. One weighing twelve and a half pounds has run 200 yards two yards better than 12 seconds. A thirty-six pound dog has run 200 yards in 10½ seconds, which is one-eighth of a second worse than 100 yards in 5 seconds and which time will compare favorably with the speed of the race horse.

The speed of the whippet has been tested in many ways. The bicyclist "Mile a Minute" Murphy thought he could outstrip anything that moved until a little whippet showed him the error of his ways. He was given a running start around an eight lap track and came to the dog at top speed. When the pistol was fired and the dog was unleashed, there was only one in it, and it wasn't Murphy, much to his disgust. A racing automobile was beaten as easily, and the chauffeur thought he was moving until he saw the dog leave his company, when he concluded that autos and whippets both had their merits, but springs were not the auto's line when pitted against the racing dog.

"Mr. Shortosendes," said the homely maiden, "why do you woo me?"

"Because I love you!" exclaimed the ardent lover.

"Has my wealth nothing to do with it?"

"Nothing whatever."

"Well," she said, pondering a moment, "I'll take you. I'd rather marry a liar than a fool."

Forget the nine holes, the strokes and the clubs.

And take the advice of men wiser: A match game each week can be played on the tubs.

And the stove is a great exerciser. For building a figure there's naught like a broom.

Every muscle is called into play. And a wife can grow strong in her own little room.

At least so the scientists say.

MODERN MIRACLES.

CURES PERFORMED LAST NIGHT THAT RIVAL THOSE OF 1900 YEARS AGO.

Opera House the scene of the Most Astonishing and Unparalleled Accomplishments—The Boy Phenomenon, the Hero of the Day Greeted with Prolonged Applause From a Crowded Audience—Another Demonstration To Night. Free for Adults Only.

"Wonderful!" "Astonishing!" "Miraculous!" "The work of God!" "Miraculous!" "How can he do it?" and many like expressions were heard as the throng surged out of the Opera House last night, after witnessing the most interesting exhibition of healing the sick ever performed in this part of the country.

There has never been a medical practitioner or any other man in this city who attracted so much attention or been the object of such great praise as has been accorded this youthful healer since his advent here. He is the talk of the town. One hears and sees nothing but "Boy Phenomenon."

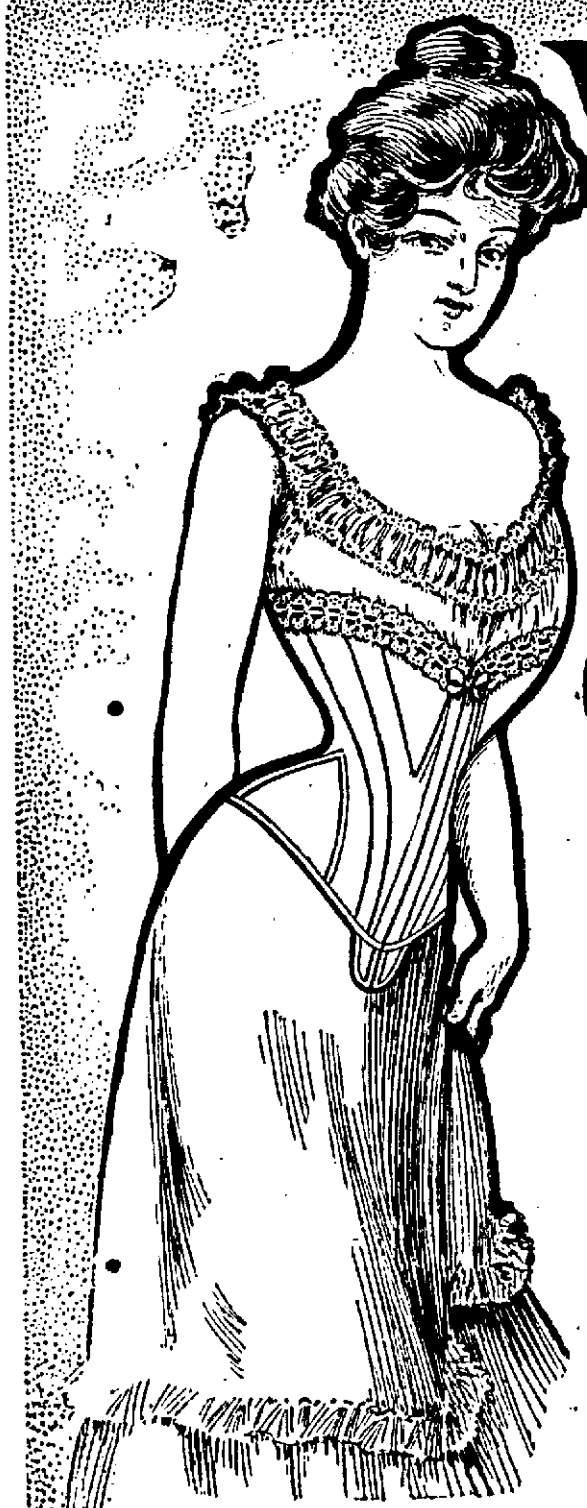

He is the chief topic of conversation on the streets, in the stores, on the cars, in offices, at home, in fact, everywhere. His name, coupled with the marvelous cures he accomplished last night on the stage before hundreds of representative citizens of Janesville has created an exciting episode in our city.

There were many of our most prominent and influential citizens in the audience, including leading physicians, lawyers and judges and business men. As usual, many were, no doubt, very skeptical when they went out, but all of one mind as they went out, and that was that magnetism, as possessed by the "Boy Phenomenon," does undoubtedly possess most wonderful healing qualities.

Tonight will occur the second and last public exhibition. Those who are interested in the work, and all who are on crutches and canes, the lame, deaf and sick, who wish to be cured, will be given front seats and treated free upon the stage. Admission free to all adults.

About a half dozen well-known citizens were treated last night suffering from as many different diseases and by his wonderful life giving magnetism restored paralyzed limbs to usefulness, made the deaf hear, the blind to see and the lame to walk, in each instance the patient demonstrating by their actions and testifying by words the great benefits derived. While there were very remarkable cures performed, time prevents a more extended notice in this article. Suffice to say, he did all and more than his advertisement claimed for him.

Those who desire private treatment and are able to pay a small price to be treated, may call at the Hotel Myers any time during the next two weeks, and receive consultation, examination and a thorough diagnosis at which time the examining physician will decide if your case is curable, and if so, the price of treatment will be named. No free cases treated at the hotel. Those wishing free treatment must go to the Opera House tonight. Office hours, 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. daily, except the Sabbath.
